

Call for applications

ADEFFI Postgraduate Bursary / Bourse doctorale

The Association d'études françaises et francophones (ADEFFI)'s postgraduate bursary, generously co-sponsored by AMOPA Irlande, is once again open for applications.

This prestigious award of €500 is dedicated to helping any PhD student enrolled in an Irish college or higher education institution in any area of French Studies, including cultural studies related to the French-speaking world, French history and politics, French linguistics or language learning/pedagogy, translation studies or comparative studies.

This fund can be a great boost to our work (brief reports from previous recipients can be found here), and I would very much encourage you all to apply, especially those of you who are looking to book a research trip or conference soon!

The application should contain:

- A description of the research project
- A brief justification for support (intended expenses or spending, importance to the overall research project, no more than 200 words)
- A CV (maximum 2 pages)
- Confirmation of ADEFFI membership
- A confidential letter of recommendation (forwarded from the supervisor)

Please do share the call with anyone who may be interested.

Applying:

The applications should be sent to Dr Catherine Emerson (catherine.emerson@universityofgalway.ie) by Friday 8 May 2026 by 5pm.

Please do get in contact if you have any questions at adeffipostgrad@gmail.com.
